Selling to Cuba's private sector: get paid in the U.S., before the goods sail

HOW IT WORKS

- A verified Cuban private business orders from you. You invoice it, by name, for the goods FCA Port Everglades.
- QvaPay pays you in dollars, in your own U.S. account (or USDT to your wallet), with the order number, against the invoice, the export authorization and the EEI, before the goods sail.
- QvaPort consolidates in Florida, files the EEI as your agent (with your written authorization) and books and pays the ship to Mariel. You never contract carriage to Cuba.
- It costs you nothing: the buyer pays QvaPay's fee, 2.5% on goods designed and made or assembled in the U.S., 5% on the rest, on the goods only.

A FACTORY OUTSIDE THE U.S.?

- Since 30 September a Cuban buyer can't pay you through U.S. banks.
- Sell to QvaPort: it buys with its own money, brings the goods into the Florida foreign-trade zone and exports them. The buyer pays QvaPort 5% + QvaPay 5% on the goods; QvaPort pays you, at your price.

THE LAW, FOR YOU

- Classify each product under the EAR. EAR99 or anti-terrorism-only items can go under License Exception SCP for the private sector (15 CFR §740.21(b)(1)); farm goods under AGR; anything else needs a BIS license.
- No government, Communist Party, listed-official or Restricted List end user.
- No payment may put foreign funds into a Cuban-owned bank (BIS condition, 4 March 2026). Paid through QvaPay, none does.
- The EEI is filed for every shipment to Cuba, whatever its value. Keep export records five years.
